Private Chef

Taking the first step to explore Shells & Bones Private Chef service is to imagine having a chef visit your home to prepare customized meals for you and your family.

The chef will arrive with a full bag of fresh and healthy ingredients after shopping at the best local purveyors. He will cook your meals all day, store them in your refrigerator and freezer, and before leaving your home, clean the kitchen so that you find it as you left it, except you will still smell the aromas of freshly prepared food from a full day of cooking.

To get things started we meet with you to investigate your cooking and eating preferences. We discover your favorite things to include in our menu plan and the things we have to stay away from due to allergies, aversions and special dietary needs. We agree on a pantry list of often used ingredients that we'll stock for you as well decide on the type of storage containers you would like your meals stored in for future heating and serving.

Then, no later than a week before we cook in your home, Shells & Bones designs a specialized menu and, upon your approval, creates the recipes and the shopping list for a mutually-agreed upon cooking day.

Pricing for various Private chef-prepared meals is based on the number of meals you would like and the number of people you are planning to feed. The cost of groceries is extra and passed on to you with no mark-up. Receipts for groceries are provided along with an invoice for services.
